FEATURES OF TRADE.

Harness Leather Produced Beyond the Demand of Trade.

MARGINS NARROWED TO NOTHING.

All Grades of Leather Cheaper Because of Cheap Hides.

THE WHEAT AND FLOUR SITUATION

OFFICE OF PITTSBURG DISPATCH, TUESDAY, March 19, 1889. A leading harness maker of the city who has been familiar with the trade for a half century furnishes some facts pertaining to this important industry which it is believed will be of interest to the reader of THE DIS-PATCH. His view of the situation is substan-

- Harness leather tapners of Allegheny have been increasing their capacity for the past year or two, until they are now able to turn out an amount of stock fully double their capacity five years ago. It appears that they have gone somewhat beyond the demands of trade and find themselves overstocked this spring. We are now passing through what might be called to a satisfactory basis.

The harness leather trade has been develop-The harness leather trade has been developing year by year, until this city has become one of the recognized centers in this line throughout the world of commerce. Manufacturers, having now reached out a little too far, must wait until trade catches up, which it is fast doing. February was a very quiet mooth with our harness makers. Since the beginning of March there has been a decided improvement, and all signs now point to a good spring trade. Certain it is that Pittsburg will feel the benest of a revival in harness as soon as any other point, as her goods in this line are at a premium everywhere. The products of the Allegheny harness leather tanneries have an advantage of fully ke per pound in the world's markets, and will, as a matter of course, be the first to enjoy the benefit of a trade revival.

Lewer Prices Expected.

Lower Prices Expected.

For cheaper grades of harness prospects are that this season's prices will be below anything for a score of years. Hides have not been so low since before the war as they have been in recent weeks. Price of hides now is not above one-half what it was a decade ago. The depreciation has affected most low grade harness leather. The manufacturer who furnishes these facts deals mainly in the high grade arleather. The manufacturer who furnishes these facts deals mainly in the high grade article, his customers in the main demanding the best in this tine. In this line of barness prices will touch a lower level this season than for many years nast. Tanners complain that notwithstanding the low price of hides competition is now so sharp that margins are well nigh wiped out. A representative of one of the leading tanneries of Allegheny whose trade is in special lines says: "Our margin of profit is almost gone. How our competitors in New England can keep their business going at present prices is a mystery to me. In the amount of leather we are turning out we have an advantage of $10,000 a year over those New England tanneries in the matter of bark alone. And still we have all we can do at present prices to come out even."

This statement was referred to an old-time leather manufacturer, who said that tanners in the East have an advantage in the lower price of labor which offsets the higher price of bark.

Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, March 19,-There was a fair New York. March 18.—There was a fair trade in drygoods, activity with jobbers showing signs of exhaustion, and business with agents increasing, though in woolen goods it is quiet. Jobbers are still doing a good business, and demand at first hands continues irregular. Ginghams attract attention by being thrown overboard at the hands of jobbers, agents and auctioneers, but the movement has ceased to influence the general market. The Fall River strake is felt in its uncertainty, but the effect is in the direction of firmness, though no new changes have occurred in consequence.

MARKETS BY WIRE

Wheat Drope Under the Influence of Re ported Continental Selling Orders-Corn Lower - Oats Barely Steady-Hog Products Weak and Un-

CHICAGO.—There was a fair trading in wheat to-day, and the feeling considerably unsettled within a lower range of prices. ably unsettled within a lower range of prices. Influences governing the market were again mostly local. May opened a shade under yesterday's closing, but advanced %c, then declined 2%c under rather free offerings, recovered 3%c, and closed about 1c lower than yesterday. June closed 3%c lower: July declined

Ic, and closed %c lower than yesterday.

The market started out easy, influence by the continued favorable weather here and dull and heavy cable advices. It was noticed that there was considerable wheat on sale at the advance, and the impression was that a prominent local trader was the principal seiler. This, together with a denial of the rumor alluded to about the California shipments to Australia and reports that there were a good many continental selling orders on the seaboard, caused a steady decline.

Corn ruled active, and though fluctuation kept within a narrow range, the volume of business in the aggregate was larger than for several days past. The temper of the crowd was decidedly bearish, and repeated efforts were made to break the market. Trading was confined to the May-future largely, while the confined to the May-future largely, while the nearer deliveries were quite neglected at times. The easier feeling was attributed chiefly to large receipts, both present and prospective. The market opened at yesterday's closing, fluctuated within a $\frac{1}{2}\colong \text{range}$, closing $\partial{\text{closing}}$, $\partial{\text{closing}}$, $\partial{\text{closing}}$, $\partial{\text{closing}}$, active and unsettled. A feature of the trading was the strength and activity in May and the weakness and decline in June and July. The firmness in the former was due to purchases by a local operator who caused an advance of $\partial{\text{closing}}$, an attempt to unload, however, resulting in a reaction and a decline of $\frac{1}{2}\cdot \text{closing}$ followed. The latter part of the session was marked by quietness and steadiness and the last sales were at nearly inside prices.

Only a moderate trade was done in hog products, and a weak feeling prevailed during the greater portion of the session. Speculative offerings were rather free early, and prices declined materially on all the leading articles. Later the demand improved somewhat and prices rallied again, but settled back to about medium figures. Near the close the feeling was firmer, and prices advanced to outside figures, closing steady.

The leading tunives ranged as follows:

On the Produce Exchange to-day the butter market was easy and unchanged. Eggs weak breaking up of country roads are good reasons for the light movement. Very little wheat has been coming in from farmers' bins this month. The Miller's estimate of the amount of visible supply of wheat east of the Rocky Mountains is 50,000,000 bushels less than at this time last year.

Notwithstanding this shortage, demand continues very light, and unfavorable news comes from every quarter of the globe as to flour prospects.

At Minneapolis there was a decline of 20c per barrel last week and 40c in the past month. Pitsburg jobbers report that markets have been cut here for a week or two past. The drift of flour has been toward a lower level of prices the world over the past month or two. The unfortunates who stocked up at old rates have in vain tried to stem the downward drift, and even lower prices are not improbable.

The Turtle Creek Oil and Gas Company is pushing the work on its well on the Montgomery farm. The well has been drilled to a depth of 1,400 feet, with good indications of gas, but it will be sunk 200 feet deeper. It is in the same belt as the Wilkinsburg well. The company is sanguine of developing a regular roarer.

The real estate market continues to show great activity. Private sales occur daily. They nclude many important pieces of property ooth in the city and suburbs, and represent large values. Sales by agents and dealers are numerous. Auction sales are also frequent, some very fine properties changing hands in this way. Values are steady, with a hardening tendency. Fears have been expressed of a collapse, but it is hard to conceive of a tumble in anything with a good cash demand to hold it up. Beside, most of the unimproved ground that has been sold within the past year or two has been utilized for residence purposes, thus practically taking it out of the market and lessening the chances of a squeeze, of which there is no sign on the business horizon.

There are said to be tricks in all trades. The latest verification of the saying comes from London. The fraud is very ingenious, and shows that our English cousins can hold their own in more ways than one with the Yankees own in more ways than one with the rankees or any other people. So far as known the swin-dle has not been imported to this country. A short time ago John Matthews was arraigned before a police magistrate in London for dyeing cloverseed. The prosecuting attorney, in opening the case said: "The prosecution is taken up by some of the largest seed merchants in Mark Lane, and the reason for its being taken up is that for many years past very great frauds have been going on in reference more particularly to cloverseed. If it is mixed with old seed there is a very large diminution of the germinating power. Therefore it is not only a question of defrauding the seed merchant, (because of course if they could dye old cloverseed to give it the appearance of new, they are enabled to undersell the bona fide merchants dealing in that article), but it is also defrauding the farmers who purchase from the merchant, because when they have sown their seed instead of coming up in the proper way it does not come up at all. The process which has been adopted for a long time has been to buy up old worn out cloverseed, and submit it to a certain process of dyeing. This having gone on for some time, the large merchants in the trade made up their minds to put a stop to it." The defendant was fined $50 and costs.

the Line-Railroad Bonds Quiet. NEW YORK, March 19.-There was a ver marked change in the temper of the stock speculation to-day, and the entire list, with the exception of the Grangers and the Southwest-ern stocks, advanced materially, the upward movement being steady and meeting with hardly a check throughout the day. This was on the revulsion of feeling from the scare of vesterday, and although the situation abroad may be bad enough, it is evidently not so bad as was reported yesterday, and the fact begins to be apparent that there is little to be feared from the collapse in this country.

The buying to-day was of the best character, London leading off with liberal purchases of all of its favorites, while Chicago did not send the batch of disquieting reports which has been the usual thing to do, and the shorts also covered heavily in the general list, although in the Grangers and Southwesterns it is doubtful the transactions of the day.

The only piece of news calculated to affect the market unfavorably was the report of the Burlington and Quincy, which was something

The only piece of news calculated to affect the market unfavorably was the report of the Burlington and Quincy, which was something worse than had been expected, and the issue was the signal for another drive at the stocks mentioned, although Rock Island was the principal sufferer. Missouri Pacific was the only strong spot among the roads in that region, and it is one of the leaders in showing a marked advance this evening, on the report that Mr. Gould's visit to the Southwest was, in part, in regard to a movement to bring about better relations among the roads in that section. The improvement among the other stocks was very uniform and steady, although in many cases the losses of yesterday were not fully recovered.

The most pronounced gains, as usual, were among the specialties and Manhattan, Pullman and some others, especially in the last hour became very strong. In the last hour several specialties came to the front and the highest prices of the day were reached in all departments of the list, and the market closed active and strong at the top figures. Everything on the list is higher, however, and Manhattan rose 3½; Missouri Pacific, 2; Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, 1½; New England, 1½; Burlington and Quincy, 1½; Atchison, 1½; Chicago Gas, Canada Southern, Louisville and Nashville, and Texas Pacific, 1½ each; Pacific, 2; Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis, 1½; New England, 1½; Surlington and Quincy, 1½; St. Paul, Union Pacific, and Norfolk and Western Duion, 1 per cent each, and the others fractional amounts.

The railroad bond market was again quiet and failed to respond to the strength or animation in the share list. The sales of all issues were only $1,235,000, but out of that amount Denver and Rio Grande Western Assented bonds contributed $130,000, and the Texas Pacific second incomes $111,000. There was no decided tone to the dealings, but fluctuations were small, except in a few issues, and the important changes are few in number and fairly divided between gains and

DOMESTIC MARKETS

Butter and Eggs Still Keep Drifting to Lower Levels.

NEW PRODUCE SHOVING OUT OLD. Heavy Grain and Hay Receipts--- No Sales at the Exchange.

FLOUR IS QUIET AT THE DECLINE

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH, TUESDAY, March 19, 1889. Country Produce-Jobbing Prices. Creamery butter shows drooping tendencies under the influence of late balmy weather. The same is true of eggs. Spring has made such an early start that hens already begin to get in their work. Dairy butter usually begins to show up about April 1. As the season for the new approaches old stock is more and more depressed. Eggs are now little above midsummer prices. Demand is light by reason of declining markets. Stock comes in more freely than it goes out. The hand to mouth policy is pursued by dealers in the present condition of markets, when the drift is downward. Cus-tomers pursue this policy in the faith they will be able to buy lower in a few days. Produce men find little comfort in the situation. As new stuff is coming in from the South, the old grows weaker every day.

Cereal markets give little signs of life. The situation is in the buyers favor all along the line. Wheat is a few cents above the lowest point reached last week, but flour continues easy and demand light. Jobbers who laid in heavy stocks of flour a month ago will find it difficult to come out whole. In that time there has been a drop of almost 50c per harrel at Minneapolis. The drift is toward lower levels in all cereal lines.
